The Outlook

STRENGTHS

DEFENSIVE LINE: Everything points to great improvement here. Position swap by Lamar Lundy and Larry Stephens should help and left end Dave Jones and left tackle Merlin Olsen are one year smarter and exceptionally strong. But acquisition of veteran Rosey Grier makes possible a strong game of musical chairs.

LINEBACKING: Marlin McKeever, with a full season under his belt at the middle position, should be even more effective than he was in 1962. Mike Henry is a strong outside backer and will be better acquainted with the system than he was last year. Jack Pardee looms as the other outside starter with Bill Jobko in reserve and both are seasoned, capable backers.

RUNNING BACKS: The Rams should be better in this position than throughout most of 1962 because Jon Arnett will be healthy again. Dick Bass, if he is even close to his 1962 season, will make this a great 1-2 punch and behind them are some talented men. Ollie Matson returns to a running spot after two seasons as a blocker-receiver at the slotback post, but he must win a job over the likes of Art Perkins, big rookie Ben Wilson from USC and Glenn Shaw.

OFFENSIVE END: Jim Phillips is a great one, Carroll Dale is a good one, Duane Allen can be a great one. Pervis Atkins, the starting slotback last year, has everything to become a fine end. He'll battle former Bear John Adams for tight end job.

WEAKNESSES

OFFENSIVE LINE: Coach Harland Svare feels added experience is needed in interior offensive wall. The guard positions constitute problems because both Joe Scibelli and Charlie Cowan have only two seasons in the NFL and neither became a full-time starter until last year. Return of 11-year veteran Duane Putnam, who wound up 1962 as a starting guard, is doubtful. Putnam has a boys' summer camp and would have to report late. Either Jim Boeke or Joe Carollo will team with Pro Bowler Frank Varrichione at the tackles. Svare is hoping this will be the year that three-year veteran Boeke arrives as a performer. Center was a big problem in 1962 after Art Hunter suffered severe knee injury and had to undergo surgery. Hunter will be back, but coaches want a strong back-up man in case big Art suffers a recurrence of the injury.

DEFENSIVE BACKFIELD: All-pro corner Eddie Meador and player-coach Lindon Crow are fixtures on left side, but right corner and right safety positions are not solid. At corner, Carver Shannon showed flashes of fine play in 1962, but he seems better suited to safety position. At safety, ball-hawking Charley Britt wound up as '62 regular after rookie Bobby Smith had his troubles. A combination of Britt's coverage and Smith's tackling would solve this problem.

QUARTERBACK: Roman Gabriel and rookie Terry Baker could turn this weakness into a strength, but because of their lack of experience, it still must be rated below the rest of the league. Gabriel was excellent in final four games of '62 and looms as the starter unless Baker is capable of better play than any NFL quarterbacking rookie since Bob Waterfield.

The Squad

OFFENSIVE END: Reliable Jim Phillips seems destined to become the most prolific pass receiver in Ram history and, in the past two seasons, has caught more passes than any other NFL player. The redhead's 1961-62 total is 138 receptions, while his nearest competitors are Tommy McDonald of Philadelphia (122) and Del Shofner of New York (121).

Phillips' pass-catching teammates are of such high caliber that coach Harland Svare rates the end positions as quite possibly his club's strongest spots.

At the left end spot is Carroll Dale, one of the NFL's swiftest, and also returning are Duane Allen and Karl Finch, who replaced Allen on the roster when the latter was injured at mid-season.

The tight end job probably will go to either Pervis Atkins, who rated as the club's second leading receiver in 1962 with 35 catches or former Bears' player John Adams.

OFFENSIVE TACKLE: Frank Varrichione, who played in his fifth Pro Bowl following the 1962 season, will be back for season No. 9 and should be the leader in the offensive line. The fight for the starting job on the left side seems to be between last year's fine rookie Joe Carollo and ever-improving Jim Boeke. Carollo was on Pro Football Illustrated's all-rookie team, but Boeke still seems to have the edge.

OFFENSIVE GUARD: Eleven-year NFL veteran Duane Putnam and sophomore pros Joe Scibelli and Charlie Cowan composed the Rams' guard trio at season's end in 1962. Putnam, owner of a summer boys' camp, may not play again this year, but the other two will return and Svare believes both will be improved after two seasons in the league.

CENTER: A knee injury in the second game of the 1962 league season and a resulting operation sidelined Art Hunter and the Rams sorely missed the big veteran, who will be playing his ninth NFL season this year. He reports the knee is "good as ever."

QUARTERBACK: Roman Gabriel started the final four games of 1962 and finished what he started on each occasion. Often, during the past spring, Svare was asked to name his No. 1 quarterback. He answered each inquisitor with the same words. "Gabriel is the No. 1 man unless someone beats him out of the job." Trying to do just that will be seven-year NFL veteran Zeke Bratkowski and the most decorated collegiate player of all time, southpaw Terry Baker. Rival coaches whose teams opposed the Rams during the final third of the 1962 season, including Norm Van Brocklin and Vince Lombardi, concede Gabriel will take more than a little nudging if he is to be dislodged from the starting job. "If they have a better quarterback than this kid," Van Brocklin vowed, "they've really got something!" Baker, rated an extremely poised and mature operator as a college QB, will be given every opportunity to make good as a freshman pro, according to Svare. And Bratkowski, with the great edge in experience, could upset the applecarts of both the youngsters.

OFFENSIVE RUNNING BACK: Starting jobs right now would seem to be in the hands (and flying feet) of Dick Bass and Jon Arnett, an exciting twosome split up most of last year by Arnett's leg injury. Bass, in Arnett's absence, became the first Ram runner ever to net more than 1,000 yards in a season, racing for 1033 to rank third in the NFL. Arnett's return to the backfield late in the season only helped make Bass more effective and give defenses a double headache.

Fighting for a starting job will be Ollie Matson, for two years primarily a pass catcher and blocker at the slotback post. Svare believes Matson "still has it" and Ollie, in NFL season No. 11 and at 33 years, could be the "surprise of the year."

Art Perkins, at times last year a first stringer, and 230-pound rookie Ben Wilson are strong contenders, too. Another candidate, Glenn Shaw, had some outstanding moments as a new Ram last year.

DEFENSIVE END: For the final two games of 1962, Svare switched defensive tackle Larry Stephens to end and moved end Lamar Lundy to Stephens' former post. The switch was adjudged highly successful and Stephens and Dave Jones should start at defensive end.

Jones, quick and amazingly fast in pursuit, was named "defensive lineman of the year" by Ye Old Rams and the Rams Fan Club following the 1962 season. Stephens, obtained in a trade with Cleveland prior to the '62 season, proved a reliable and rugged performer. "He resembles Robustelli (Andy) a little in his movements," Svare says. And from an ex-Giant this is the highest praise for any defensive end!

DEFENSIVE TACKLE: Merlin Olsen, the NFL's "defensive rookie of the year in Pro Football Illustrated's poll, will share the twin starting jobs with Roosevelt Grier, acquired from the Giants in trade. Lamar Lundy can be the alternate here, but likely also will be assigned other duties. In any event, defensive tackle should be very strong.

LINEBACKER: The Les Richter era, nine years in steady operation, is now in the past and Svare believes the McKeever era may be equally lengthy. Marlin assumed the job of middle linebacker early in the 1962 season as Richter moved to offensive center and the former USC great handled the job like a veteran. Svare rates McKeever "the league's next great middle linebacker."

McKeever was injured most of 1961 (his rookie NFL year) so 1962 was his first full season. Also new to the Rams in 1962 was Mike Henry, the former Pittsburgh Steeler, who played all three linebacking positions at one time or another during '62. He is a rugged, tough and intelligent competitor.

The other 1962 starter is Jack Pardee, while Bill Jobko was the No. 1 reserve last year and probably will fill the same role again this season.

The linebacking positions should be strong spots on the club roster.

DEFENSIVE HALFBACK: Two newcomers made their way into the six-man defensive backs roster in 1962. One of these, former Canadian League offensive star Carver Shannon, was a regular at right corner and is the leading candidate for that job again this year. The other '62 newcomer, ex-UCLA tailback Bobby Smith, split the right safety spot with veteran Charley Britt, who is the man to beat this year.

Ram Coaching Staff

HARLAND SVARE

Head Coach

The youngest of a new breed of youthful and highly respected NFL coaches is the Rams' Harland Svare, who was elevated to his present post from defensive line coach midway through the 1962 season.

Not yet 32 at the time, Harland took over a team down on its luck and wavering in its poise and gave it a psychological lift. He juggled combinations of players, both on offense and defense. He experimented with comparative Ram newcomers at several positions, uncovering great promise in rookie quarterback Roman Gabriel, who held the starting job through the season's final four games.

Svare's industriousness did not pay off in the won-lost columns, since the Rams finished 0-5-1 under him for a full season mark of 1-12-1. However, the decisiveness of his moves, the fearlessness of his experimentation and the strength of his leadership won for him a 1963 contract from president Dan Reeves.

Swede hired a staff of assistants who mirror his own youthfulness and keen insight. They, like Swede, were taught football's finer points in New York by Jim Lee Howell and assistants Vince Lombardi and Tom Landry.

The bachelor from Poulsbo, Washington, plans to re-establish for the Rams the winning habit that has keynoted his own previous pro life. As a 17th round draft choice, he joined the Rams after graduating from Washington State in 1953. His two years in Los Angeles and six in New York were spent with above .500 clubs.

Recognizing Svare's dedication and keen perceptivity, Howell made him a player-coach for the Giants in 1960. He was a full-time coach under Al Sherman in 1961 before joining Bob Waterfield's staff in 1962.

RAY WIETECHA
Offensive Line

Considered one of the most intelligent and durable players in the league during his 10-year NFL career, Wietecha brings predictions of an equally successful coaching career to his new post with the Rams. "He's been preparing himself to coach for years," Svare revealed the day he announced the appointment of his former teammate. "Ray is a bright fellow and should be a highly successful coach," added Allie Sherman of the Giants. Wietecha played in 133 consecutive games with the Giants and earned All-Pro honors in five of his 10 seasons. A graduate of Northwestern, he gave pro baseball a brief fling before settling for the gridiron. Ray is married and he and wife Joan have four children. He is 34 years old.

DON HEINRICH
Offensive Backfield

Former University of Washington All-American Heinrich carries nine years of pro football experience into his job of rejuvenating the Ram offense. Considered a brilliant diagnostician of defenses and always a competent signal caller, especially on audibles, Heinrich played six years with the Giants. Five of his N.Y. seasons were under the direct supervision of Vince Lombardi, then the Giants' offensive coach. In 1960, Heinrich left the Giants to accompany Tom Landry to Dallas. Don helped set up the Dallas offense, then returned to New York in 1961 as assistant in charge of the offensive backfield. Add to his experience under three ranking coaching greats (Lombardi, Landry and Sherman) Heinrich's own sharp football mind and you have the material for a fine coach. Don and wife Barbara have four children. He is 32 years old.

BOB SCHNELKER
Offensive Ends

Bowling Green grad Schnelker began his pro career in 1953 and had brief stays with the Cleveland Browns and Philadelphia Eagles before joining the New York Giants in 1954. Bob played seven full seasons with the Giants, then wrote finis to his playing career in 1961 with Minnesota and Pittsburgh. In nine years of NFL play he established himself as an end with excellent fakes and moves. Bob was a math teacher during the off-season when he was a player. He is 34 years old.

LINDON CROW

Defensive Backs (Player Assistant)

The 1963 season will be Lindon's ninth in the NFL and his third with the Rams. Named as a player-coach when Svare assumed the reins for the final six games of 1962, Crow thrived on his double-duty role and enjoyed one of his finest seasons. In eight years (three with Cardinals, three with Giants and two with Rams) Crow has totaled 37 interceptions and ranks among the all-time NFL leaders in this department. Chosen USC's outstanding player and team captain in 1954, Lindon played in both the '54 and '55 Rose Bowl games and once scored three touchdowns in 60-minute performance against Cal. Thirty-year-old Lindon and wife Maureen have three children. He has played in three Pro Bowl games, led NFL in interceptions in 1956 with 11.

JACK PATERA

Defensive Line

The last and youngest full time assistant coach to be selected by Harland Svare, Jack Patera has, in Svare's words, "keen analytical sense of defensive football—a perfect addition to our staff." Just 30 years of age as this season begins, Patera is a seven-year NFL veteran, having served in a mainstay status for the Colts (who drafted him fourth in '55), the Cardinals and the Cowboys. An All-American guard at the University of Oregon in 1954, Patera spent most of his pro time as a linebacker. Although Jack is the only coach on the staff who is not a direct product of the New York Giant coaching system, he is no foreigner to its methods. In his two years at Dallas, Patera played under ex-Giant coach Tom Landry, the "father" of the basic defensive system which Svare has adopted and modified for the Rams. Patera and his wife Susan have four children.

PAT SUMMERALL

Place Kicking

On hand for a pre-season period to assist Ram kicking specialist Danny Villanueva will be one of the most successful place-kickers in recent NFL seasons. Pat Summerall, as a New York Giant, booted 108 PAT attempts without a miss in his final three years in Gotham (1959, '60 and '61). During that same period, he connected on 47 of 89 field goal tries for a fine 55% success. Ram fans will not forget his clutch three-pointer at the Coliseum in the 1959 season opener. It came in the closing moments to give the Giants a 23-21 win and a springboard to the eastern division title.

Biog-Rams

Adams, John — Offensive End — Los Angeles St.
Height: 6-3 — Weight: 235 — Age: 25 — Fifth Year

PRO: Adams was drafted by Bears on fourth round in 1959 and in four seasons with that club he was tried at five offensive positions including fullback, left half, left end, tight end and right end. Last year he caught five passes for 111 yards and three touchdowns. He was obtained by Rams in May 1963 for high draft choice. Rushing totals with Bears show 37 carries and 112 yards net.

COLLEGE: Adams was one of L.A. State's first grid greats. In 1958 he carried the ball 114 times for 718 yards and an average of 6.4. He also netted 326 yards on nine kickoff returns, one of which was 105 yards.

PERSONAL: Adams was born November 28, 1937 in San Diego. Currently makes his off-season home in the San Fernando Valley.

Alkire, Andy — Linebacker — Washington
Height: 6-3 — Weight: 227 — Age: 22 — First Year

COLLEGE: A second-team all-AAWU selection following his junior season, Alkire was outstanding defensive player for Huskies and will be tried as a linebacker. He was signed as a free agent.

PERSONAL: Alkire was born March 27, 1941 at Santa Rosa, California and attended high school in that city. Wife Merrilyn and Andy have daughter Merri Anne (6 months). Plans career in law following football career.

Allen, Duane — Offensive End — Santa Ana College
Height: 6-4 — Weight: 225 — Age: 25 — Third Year

PRO: A knee injury and an ensuing operation sidelined Allen following the seventh game of 1962 but not before the rangy youngster had proved again he is possessed of great NFL potential and added to his amazing touchdown record. In two years of relief work behind Jim Phillips and Carroll Dale, Allen has caught five passes. Four of these five catches have gone for touchdowns! In fact, it was on a touchdown catch against the Forty-Niners in San Francisco that Allen sustained the knee injury. Adding weight with maturity, Allen is expected to play at 225 pounds this year.

SCHOOL: Allen was a junior college all-America choice at both Mt. San Antonio in 1956 and Santa Ana in 1960 before the Rams drafted him on the sixth round in the 1960 draft. He did not play at a four-year college.

PERSONAL: An ardent devotee of rock and roll music, Duane plays piano and has written several songs. Born in Alhambra on October 21, 1937, he attended Alhambra High and earned all-Southern California prep honors. Lanky bachelor cleared 13 feet in pole vault while in junior college.

Arnett, Jon — Offensive Halfback — Southern Cal

Height: 5-11 Weight: 198 Age: 28 Seventh Year

PRO: A severe leg and ankle injury, sustained in the 1962 league opener, sidelined Arnett for five full games and hampered his efficiency throughout most of the season. It was not until the final game of the year, when he netted 103 yards in 16 carries against the champion Packers, that Jon returned to top form. Jon was used at a flanker post in two late-season games and his catches were important in a 24-24 tie with Minnesota. The club's offensive captain now ranks third on the all-time Ram rushing list behind Dan Towler and Tank Younger and needs 612 yards to pass Younger. Another Arnett goal this year will be to climb past Bob Boyd into fifth spot on the pass receiving list. Jon has caught 160 passes. His 105-yard kickoff return in 1961 stands as a club record.

SCHOOL: In two and one-half seasons of college football at USC, Arnett scored 30 touchdowns. Drafted on the first round by the Rams in 1956, he participated in the East-West, Hula Bowl and College All-Star games before joining the pros for the 1957 season. Ran a 9.9 hundred and had best broad jump mark of 25 feet at USC.

PERSONAL: Jon was born in Los Angeles on April 20, 1935 and starred in three sports at Manual Arts High. One of his top prep sports was gymnastics, and he credits tumbling competition as big aid in body balance on football field. Jon is married to former Rose Bowl princess Yvonne Flint and they have a son, Matthew, 2½.

Baker, Terry — Quarterback — Oregon State

Height: 6-3 Weight: 195 Age: 22 First Year

COLLEGE: First choice in the 1963 NFL draft, Baker came to Los Angeles as the most decorated college gridder of all time. Among his rewards following the 1962 season were the Heisman, Pop Warner and Maxwell trophies and unanimous all-America first team selections. Typical of the notices from rival coaches is one from Washington assistant Tom Tipps, who says, "He is the greatest college quarterback I've ever seen play." Terry was signed by the Rams late in March after he had led Oregon State to the semi-finals of the NCAA basketball championships. A play-making guard on the court, he still managed to average 17 points a game and was contacted by several NBA clubs. He led Oregon State to victory in the Liberty Bowl, scoring the game' only touchdown on a 99-yard run from scrimmage. Ambidextrous Terry is a left-handed passer, a right-handed baseball pitcher, plays tennis left-handed, golfs right-handed and eats left-handed.

PERSONAL: Terry Wayne Baker was born May 5, 1941 in Pine River, Minnesota. He attended Ockley Green School and Jefferson High in Portland and, like his two older brothers, then moved on to Oregon State. Maintained B-plus average in engineering at Oregon State and plans post-graduate work, probably seeking a law degree.

PRO: The most productive season ever turned in by a Rams' running back was credited to Bass in 1962 when he netted 1,033 yards. The total not only shattered Dan Towler's 1952 club record of 894 yards, but also made Bass the first Ram rusher to top the 1,000-yard mark and the 11th man in NFL history to top that figure. Only Jim Taylor and John Henry Johnson gained more yards than the Rams' ace during 1962 and only Taylor (5.4) had a better average-per-carry figure than Bass' 5.3. Both the Rams Fan Club and the Ye Olde Rams honored The Scooter as the "MVP" and "top offensive back," the only time one player has made a clean sweep of four awards. Included in Bass' best days of 1962 were the following efforts: 140 yards rushing against the Lions in Detroit, 90 yards against the Packers in Milwaukee and 169 yards against the Bears in Chicago . . . three big days against three of the NFL's top defensive clubs on their home fields. A former disc jockey and a talented saxophone player, Dick also is a master of the dance . . . twist variety. In the off-season, he shares a nightly TV sportcast and commentary with Pervis Atkins.

He came to Rams along with Lindon Crow in trade which sent Bill Wade to Chicago and the Bears' Erich Barnes to the Giants.

The rugged veteran came to the Rams just prior to the '61 season in trade that sent Lou Michaels to Pittsburgh.

SCHOOL: All-America honors came to Varrichione following his 1954 season at Notre Dame and also the nickname of "Faintin' Frank." He earned tag when his "injury" stopped the clock and enabled Irish to get in play and tie Iowa. Following graduation, he played in College All-Star and North-South games.

In the place-kicking department, Villanueva hit on 26 of 27 conversion attempts and 10 of 20 field goal tries to lead the Rams in scoring for the third straight year. His 51-yard field goal against Dallas tied the club record and he also had one good from 49 yards. 1962 Games Summaries

At Baltimore: Rams lost Arnett on serious leg injury early in game, but managed to carry 27-16 lead past halfway point of fourth quarter. Intercepted pass and fumble gave Johnny Unitas two chances and he cashed in both opportunities, hitting Berry and Orr with fourth-down TD passes to net comeback, 30-27 win. Rams had made comeback of their own after trailing 13-0 and 16-7 in first half. Los Angeles finished with 373-259 net yardage edge and threw Unitas for losses totaling 36 yards. It was fifth straight loss in league opener, last win coming against Philadelphia in 1957.

At Los Angeles: Rams, who have not beaten Chicago since Wrigley Field meeting in 1959, out-gained the Bears both on ground and in air in this one but still fell four points short, 27-23. L.A. scored first in second period on 80-yard pass from Bratkowski to Dale, Bears tied it on Wade-to-Ditka pass for 59 yards then fell behind again when Villanueva booted 10-yard field goal. Wade sneaked one yard shortly before halftime for 13-10 Chicago lead. Bass got L.A. back in lead on 45-yard run on fourth-down play, but 12-yard run by Martin made it 21-17 and Marconi's seven-yard run 27-17.

1962 Game Summary

At Los Angeles: (Pre-Season) In one of the most thrilling renewals in their long series, the Rams and Browns played this one to the wire with Cleveland's Jim Ninowski passing 21 yards to Brewer for the winning touchdown with only 57 seconds left in the game.

Frank Ryan started at quarterback for Cleveland and had little success. The Rams jumped into a 7-0 yead in the first quarter following a 48-yard punt return by Pervis Atkins. Arnett toured left end for the TD. A 22-yard field goal by Villanueva made it 10-0 at halftime.

A Ninowski-to-Kreitling pass for 50 yards and Tom Wilson's 37-yard run put Cleveland ahead 13-10 in the third quarter, but Bratkowski's pass to Allen was good for 84 yards, a touchdown and a 17-13 Ram margin.

In the fourth period, the Rams marched 80 yards for a 24-13 margin before the Browns answered with an 80-yard drive of their own to set the stage for Ninowski's winning aerial to Brewer.

Each team finished with 18 first downs, the Rams led in total yardage with 391 to 372 for the Browns.

The two clubs last met in a league game in the opener of 1958 with Lou Groza's toe the last-minute difference in a 30-27 Cleveland conquest.

1962 Game Summary

At Los Angeles: The Cowboys, who furnish the competition in two Rams pre-season games this year, showed in 1962 that even though they are a young club they will be a power in the National Football League in years to come.

In 1960, Dallas' first year in the NFL, the Rams scored two lopsided victories, winning 49-14 in a pre-season test and 38-13 in a league game. But the 1962 renewal was a far different story. The Cowboys, who were in the fight for the Eastern Division title until late in the year, posted a 27-17 triumph and rolled up 403 yards in the process.

Seven plays following the opening kickoff, Don Perkins blasted five yards over the middle to give Dallas a 7-0 lead. Following a 51-yard second-quarter field goal by Villanueva, Baker connected from 34 yards out to give the Cowboys a 10-3 halftime margin.

On a third-and-two situation in the third quarter, LeBaron hit Marsh on a short pass and Amos raced the rest of the way to complete an 85-yard scoring play and a 17-3 margin.

The Rams scored two touchdowns in the fourth period, one on a 16-yard pass from Bratkowski to Phillips and the other on a 48-yarder from Gabriel to Atkins. It was Gabriel's first TD pass as a pro. However, LeBaron's long scoring pass to Frank Clarke and another Baker field goal kept the Cowboys in front.

Marsh netted 94 yards rushing and LeBaron 241 through the air.

L.A. jumped into 21-0 lead on 65-yard interception return by Crow, 36-yard TD pass from Bratkowski to Allen and Arnett's three-yard run over guard. Forty-Niners closed gap to 21-14 early in fourth period, but Ram defense stopped several other threats and L.A. drove 40 yards in final minute for final margin. Bass netted 95 yards in 24 carries, Arnett 60 in 17.

1962 Games Summaries

At Los Angeles (Pre-Season): In 17th game of traditional charity series, Rams scored easy victory. Two Villanueva field goals and two Bratkowski TD passes (one to Matson and another to Arnett) gave Rams 20-0 halftime lead. A poor Washington punt and an intercepted pass set up third-quarter TD runs by Bass and Perkins and Villanueva added another field goal to make it 37-0 after three quarters. Bratkowski wound up with 13 of 22 for 272 yards.

At Washington: Redskins turned on pre-season tormentors and eked out victory in rematch, the first league meeting between two clubs since 1951. Khayat's 30-yd. field goal and a short Snead-to-Dugan pass gave Washington 10-0 first-quarter lead. Bratkowski passed 33 yards to Bass to make it 10-7 early in second quarter, but another field goal by Khayat (46 yds.) and another Snead-to-Dugan aerial gave Skins a 20-7 halftime margin. Miller's first TD pass as a Ram went to Phillips early in final quarter on a play good for 55 yards, but Redskins defense held on to preserve victory. Snead completed 15 of 22 for 212 yards; Bratkowski 10 of 16 for 120 yards and Miller 4 of 5 for 84 yards.
